semi-protected\nFrom Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia\nThis article is about men\'s ODI records. For women\'s records, see List of women\'s One Day International cricket records.\n\nSachin Tendulkar is the leading run-scorer and century maker in ODI cricket\nMuttiah Muralidharan\nMuttiah Muralitharan is the highest wicket-taker in ODI cricket\nOne Day International (ODI) cricket is played between international cricket teams who are Full Members of the International Cricket Council (ICC) as well as the top four Associate members.[1] Unlike Test matches, ODIs consist of one inning per team, having a limit in the number of overs, currently 50 overs per innings â€" although in the past this has been 55 or 60 overs.[2] ODI matches are a subset of List A cricket and so records and statistics are recorded both for specifically for ODIs and within List A.\n\nThe earliest match recognised as an ODI was played between England and Australia in January 1971;[3] since then there have been more than 4,000 ODIs played by 28 teams. The frequency of matches has steadily increased, partly because of the increase in the number of ODI-playing countries, and

partly as the cricket boards of those nations seek to maximise their revenue with the increased popularity of cricket, a process that dates from the time of the Packer Revolution.[4] In February 2022, in their home series against the West Indies, India played their 1,000th ODI match,[5] becoming the first team to play one thousand matches in this format.[6]

The trend of countries to increase the number of ODI matches they play means that the aggregate lists are dominated by modern players, though this trend is reversing as teams play more Twenty20 Internationals. Indian cricketer Sachin Tendulkar has scored the most runs in ODIs with a total of 18,426. Sri Lankan spinner Muttiah Muralitharan is the highest ODI wicket-taker with a total of 534 wickets. The record for most dismissals by a wicket-keeper is held by Kumar Sangakkara of Sri Lanka while the record for most catches by a fielder is held by Sri Lankan Mahela Jayawardene.

Listing criteria

In general the top five are listed in each category (except when there is a tie for the last place among the five, in which case all the tied record holders are noted).

Listing notation

Team notation

(300) indicates that a team scored 300 runs for three wickets and the innings was closed, either due to a successful run chase or if no overs remained (or are able) to be bowled.

(300) indicates that a team scored 300 runs and was all out, either by losing all ten wickets or by having one or more batsmen unable to bat and losing the remaining wickets.

Batting notation

(100*) indicates that a batsman scored 100 runs and was not out.

(175) indicates that a batsman scored 175 runs and was out after that.

Bowling notation

(5() indicates that a bowler has captured 5 wickets while giving away 40 runs.

(49.5 overs) indicates that a team bowled 49 complete overs (each of six legal deliveries), and one incomplete over of just five deliveries.

Active players

Currently active ODI players appear in boldface.

Currently active ODI officials are shown by &#j.

Seasons

is played during the summer months in most countries. Domestic cricket seasons in Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, India, Pakistan, Sri Lanka, Bangladesh, Zimbabwe and the West Indies may therefore span two calendar years, and are by convention said to be played in (e.g.) "2008	". A cricket season in England is described as a single year. e.g. "2009". An international ODI series or tournament may be for a much shorter duration, and Cricinfo treats this issue by stating "any series or matches which began between May and September of any given year will appear in the relevant single year season and any that began between October and April will appear in the relevant cross-year season".[7]

In the record tables, a two-year span generally indicates that the record was set within a domestic season in one of the above named countries.

2019[12]\nNarrowest win margins (by runs)\nThe narrowest margin of victory by teams batting first is one run, which has been achieved in 31 ODIs. Australia have won by this margin on six occasions, which is the most for any team.[13]\n\nNarrowest win margins (by balls remaining)\nTeams batting second have won on the final ball of their innings 36 times, with South Africa winning in such a manner seven times. [14]\n\nNarrowest win margins (by wickets)\nThe narrowest margin of victory by wickets is by a single wicket, which has settled 55 ODIs. Both West Indies and New Zealand have recorded such victory on eight occasions. The first win was over England in the 7th and final ODI (ODI 2226) of a seven-game series. The 6th ODI (ODI 2225) was a no result, before which South Africa had won the 3rd (ODI 2221), 4th (ODI 2223), and 5th (ODI 2224) ODIs. Ignoring this no result, the sequence lasted 15 matches.[17] The last win came against New Zealand in the 3rd ODI (ODI 2289) of a five-game series. The 4th ODI (ODI 2292) was a no result and South Africa won the 5th ODI (ODI 2293) as well as the 1st ODI (ODI 2297) against India in their next series before losing to India in the 2nd ODI (ODI 2298). Ignoring this no result as well, South Africa's winning streak is further extended to 17 matches.[18]\nThis sequence was ended by a no-result. The last win was the 2007 Cricket World Cup Final (ODI 2581). Australia's next ODI (ODI 2621) was the first game of a seven-game series against India; there was no result. Australia won the next two ODIs of the series (ODI 2623 and 2625) before losing the 4th ODI (ODI 2627). If this no result is ignored, the second and third ODIs would be included in Australia's winning streak, extending it to 13 matches.[19]\nMost consecutive defeats\nDefeats[a]\tTeam\tFirst defeat\tLast defeat\n23\tBangladesh[b]\tWest Indies at Dhaka, 8 October 1999\tSouth Africa at Kimberley, 9 October 2002\n22\tBangladesh\tPakistan at Moratuwa, 31 March 1986\tIndia at Mohali,
